Dear Sir/Madam,

This is in continuation to our earlier mail dated May 28, 2014 and earlier requests from NBPGR sent during 2010 and 2011, regarding information on active germplasm collections or any other plant germplasm for food and agriculture available with your esteemed organization.

It is desired by the authorities in the ICAR that accession wise information on all types of germplasm maintained as active or working collections in medium term storage (MTS) or field gene banks or with any scientist in his/her laboratory of your institute/university needs to be documented and shared with NBPGR on an URGENT basis. Since a portal housing all information related to PGR for food and agriculture has been prepared and being updated regularly by NBPGR, with a purpose to facilitate sharing of the right kind of material with breeders to promote PGR utilization for crop improvement, it is requested that the detailed information on all available germplasm with your organization be documented and sent to NBPGR on priority, as per the format enclosed.

It may also be noted that as per Biological Diversity Act, 2002 (Chapter X Section 41), the detailed information on all available germplasm in India needs to be documented on priority.

Further, it is requested that if any plant germplasm maintained by your organization is without any
